SELECT COMMITTEE ON ETHICS

May 15, 2017

Kimberly Lynn Brandt
Committee on Finance
United States Senate
Washington, DC 20510

Dear Ms. Brandt:

This responds to your recent correspondence concerning an invitation you received to travel to the 2017 U.S. Congressional Staff Exchange Program, in Tokyo and Hiroshima, Japan, on May 27 to June 3, 2017, sponsored by the Japan Center for International Exchange (JCIE). JCIE certified to the Select Committee on Ethics (the Committee) that it will pay the necessary expenses<sup>1</sup> related to the travel and that it is neither a lobbyist, nor lobbying firm, nor agent of a foreign principal, and it is not otherwise acting as a representative or agent of a foreign government. JCIE has also certified that it does not retain or employ a registered lobbyist or agent of a foreign principal, and that no registered lobbyist will accompany you at any point throughout your trip.<sup>2</sup>

Based on information and materials available to the Committee, and assuming the actual travel and travel-related expenses conform to the information and materials you provided, it appears that the proposed payment or reimbursement of necessary expenses for this trip may be accepted under relevant Senate Rules and the Committee's Regulations and Guidelines for Privately-Sponsored Travel, so long as at the time of the payment or reimbursement, JCIE is neither a registered lobbyist nor lobbying firm under the Lobbying Disclosure Act of 1995, nor an agent of a foreign principal under the Foreign Agents Registration Act (and is not otherwise acting as a representative or agent of a foreign government), and provided the travel and all required documents are disclosed to the Secretary of the Senate in accordance with the provisions of Senate Rules 34 and 35.

Senate Rule 35, Senate staff must receive advance authorization signed by the Member or officer under whose direct supervision the individual works in order to accept payment or reimbursement for necessary expenses related to fact-finding travel. Further, such authorization and expenses must be disclosed to the Secretary of the Senate by filing the completed Employee Pre-Travel Authorization and the Employee Post-Travel Disclosure of Travel Expenses (Form RE-1 and Form RE-2), along with a copy of the Private Sponsor Travel Certification Form, and all relevant attachments (e.g., the private sponsor's invitation and itinerary) within 30 days of the conclusion of Privately-Sponsored Travel.

<sup>2</sup> The term "any point throughout your trip" has a specific definition. See Select Committee on Ethics' Regulations and Guidelines for Privately-Sponsored Travel – Glossary of Terms at 2.

The Committee has determined that § 501(c)(3) non-profit organizations that are classified as private foundations, as opposed to public charities, may not pay for transportation from the United States to a foreign country.<sup>3</sup> However, JCIE represented to the Committee that it is a § 501(c)(3) public charity, as opposed to a private foundation, pursuant to the Internal Revenue Code.<sup>4</sup>

Please be advised that the United States Constitution prohibits the acceptance of any gift, including a meal, from a foreign government without the consent of Congress. In the Foreign Gifts and Decorations Act (FGDA), Congress consented to the acceptance by federal government officials of: (1) gifts of minimal value and (2) travel or the expenses for travel taking place entirely outside the United States, from a foreign government (which includes those acting as a representative or agent of a foreign government).<sup>5</sup> The Senate has defined minimal value as $100 or less. Further, pursuant to FGDA, there are certain reporting and procedural requirements that are imposed upon Members, officers, and employees who accept gifts from a foreign government. Please review the Committee's "Dear Colleague" letter of January 9, 2015 setting forth the items to be included in filing that report.

Finally, Senate Rule 34 requires a reporting individual,<sup>6</sup> on his or her Financial Disclosure Report, to make an annual disclosure of the receipt of payments or reimbursements under Senate Rule 35 from a private sponsor for officially-related travel expenses where, in the aggregate, travel expenses exceed $390 from that sponsor during a calendar year. However, if a Member, officer, or employee properly reports the receipt of necessary expenses for such travel to the Secretary of the Senate within 30 days of the travel, as discussed above, the travel expenses need not be disclosed a second time on their Financial Disclosure Report.

If you have any additional questions, please do not hesitate to contact the Committee.

Sincerely,

Deborah Sue Mayer
Chief Counsel and Staff Director

Enclosure: Travel Checklist

<sup>3</sup> See 26 U.S.C. § 4941 et seq. Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code broadly defines non-profit, charitable, tax-exempt organizations. These § 501(c)(3) organizations are then further defined or designated as "public charities" and "private foundations."

<sup>6</sup> A reporting individual is someone whose salary equals or exceeds 120% of the basic rate of pay for GS-15 ($124,406 for CY 2017) or is a political fund designee and is required to file Financial Disclosure Reports.

US Congressional Staff Exchange Program 26th Congressional Staff Delegation to Japan

MAY-JUNE 2017

FOR ONE WEEK, FROM MAY 28 TO JUNE 3, six senior Congressional staff took part in an intensive series of roundtables, briefings, and site visits in Japan as part of JCIE's US Congressional Staff Exchange Program. The group, evenly split between Republican and Democratic aides, met with more than 50 national leaders and policy experts in Tokyo to discuss bilateral security and economic relations, and several of their meetings had a special focus on US-Japan cooperation on the North Korean nuclear threat. They then moved to Hiroshima to gain an alternative perspective in a city where memories of the atomic bombing still linger.

They sat down with a total of 15 Diet members during the course of their visit—including the special advisor on security issues in Prime Minister Abe's Cabinet, Masahiko Shibayama; two former defense ministers; and some of the country's leading women legislators. They also talked with executives from some of Japan's top companies about trade and their investments in the United States and exchanged views with Hiroshima Mayor Kazumi Matsui. Both the participants and the Japanese leaders they met came away impressed by the degree to which the two societies' values and interests now are shared.

SUMMARY OF DISCUSSIONS

Bilateral Coordination on North Korea

The delegation visit came as North Korea was accelerating the pace of its missile tests. The sense of concern in Tokyo about Pyongyang's weapons program was palpable, and a number of Diet members urged the United States to increase its pressure on China in order to get it to crack down more harshly on trade with North Korea. Some clearly were worried that the United States may eventually opt for a deal with Pyongyang that prevents it from developing nuclear-tipped intercontinental ballistic missiles that can reach the United States in return for tacitly accepting the development of warheads that could only travel shorter distances but still reach Japan, and one former defense minister, Itsunori Onodera, argued that even these intermediate-range missiles would in fact target the United States—specifically the US military bases in Japan—and not just Japanese population centers.

Trade and Taxes

The 2017 delegation had deep expertise on trade and financial issues, and the US-Japan economic relationship became a central topic in many of their discussions. Prime Minister Abe expended significant political capital negotiating the Trans-Pacific Partnership (TPP) with the United States and 10 other countries, and many of the leaders who met the group expressed dismay at President Trump's withdrawal from the deal. Several Diet members displayed limited enthusiasm about the subsequent US push for a new bilateral trade agreement with Japan, arguing that it would not be as helpful for either side as the TPP would have

JCIE's US Congressional Staff Exchange Program at a Glance

- Over the past four decades, nearly 1,200 leaders have taken part in JCIE's political exchange programs.
- Since its inception in 1982, a total of 183 senior legislative aides have traveled to Japan on the US Congressional Staff Exchange Program.
- The 2016 delegation spoke with nearly 60 leaders, government official, and experts covering a broad range of areas—including 15 sitting Diet members, a dozen current and former US and Japanese diplomats, Japanese business executives, Shinto priests, policy analysts, trade negotiators, local elected officials, university professors, nonprofit leaders, and former military leaders.
- They also spoke at a panel discussion in Tokyo to an audience of 80+ policy experts.
- Prior to their departure for Japan, delegation members were briefed on US-Japan relations by Mark Manyin (Congressional Research Service).
- The program is funded by the Japan-US Friendship Commission, a US federal agency.

been, and they revealed their hopes that if Japan and its other 10 partners proceed to launch the TPP without the United States, Washington might eventually return to the fold.

The issue of tax reform also featured prominently in the groups' discussions. Japan recently lowered its corporate tax rate and the participants discussed lessons that could be taken from Japan's experiences to implement a similar reforms in the United States in a revenue neutral manner. They explained how, for the Trump administration and the US Congress, the next legislative priority for this year is tax reform, once healthcare legislation comes to a vote.

The Trump Administration and Global Governance

President Trump announced his intent to withdraw the US from the Paris climate accord while the group was in Japan, and this further fueled concerns from the Japanese side about whether the United States is willing to project global leadership in the way it has in the past. While acknowledging that the Trump presidency marks a distinct departure with the past, delegation members stressed the point that American governmental institutions ensure a degree of continuity in foreign policy. The discussion of US politics took center stage in a public seminar where the Congressional staff shared their thoughts on the Congressional agenda and the Trump administration's policy approaches with more than 80 policy experts. Delegation members from both parties surprised the attendees by explaining how much bipartisan agreement and cooperation there actually is behind the scenes in Washington, especially in the halls of Congress, on a wide range of domestic and foreign policy issues, even though the media tends to paint a picture of constant conflict.

Lessons from Hiroshima

In a two-day visit to Hiroshima, delegation members spoke with local leaders about their views of US-Japan relations and, in one remarkable encounter, they heard from an atom bomb survivor, Keiko Ogura, about how she managed to overcome that harrowing experience. The firsthand account of the human toll of nuclear weapons struck a particular chord after a week of policy discussions on North Korea's nuclear program, and the example of how Ogura has devoted her life to sharing the lessons from Hiroshima with Americans and others around the world demonstrated how much progress has been made in bridging the gulf that once divided Japan and the United States.
