Moderator: Rob Atkinson, Founder and President, ITIF
Confirmed: Jim McGregor, APCO Worldwide; John Neuffer, Semiconductor Industry Association; Clete Willems, Akin Gump
U.S. foreign and trade policy has clearly changed vis-à-vis China in the last few years. Many argue that it will be impossible to go back to the pre-2017 relationship regardless of who is in the White House in 2021. If so, what will this new relationship between China and the West look like and what are the implications for U.S. companies and the U.S. trade policy?

11:45 – 12:30 PM Lunch + Fireside Chat with Ian Conner, FTC's Bureau of Competition
Program Timing: Lunch Buffet (15 minutes) Discussion (30 minutes)
The rise of the digital economy, including a wide array of internet platforms are raising new questions regarding antitrust policy. At the same time, there have been calls to increase overall stringency of antitrust, in both merger review and conduct enforcement. This conversation will review these issues, particularly in terms of how the FTC is viewing them.

12:45 – 2:00 PM Panel: Time for a New American Innovation and Competitiveness Policy?
Moderator: Rob Atkinson, Founder and President, ITIF
Confirmed: Julius Krein, American Affairs Journal, Caleb Orr, U.S. Senate Small Business Committee (Majority)
For almost three decades, the consensus on both the left and the right was that there was not only no need for an articulated national innovation and competitiveness policy, but that such a policy might in fact be harmful. Those views appear to have shifted significantly. Several Democratic presidential candidates have called for such a policy; a growing raft of "national interest" conservatives have rejected free market doctrines to embrace an active innovation and competitiveness policy. What does this mean for policy development? Are such proposals likely to make it through the policy gauntlet that is Washington? Will the "bad" come with the "good?" How should the innovation policy community attempt to shape these policy proposals?

- 2:15 – 3:30 PM Panel: Innovation Policy in Latin America
 Moderator: Stephen Ezell, Vice President, Global Innovation Policy, ITIF
 Confirmed: Carolina Agurto, Fundación Idea; Luciana Hachmann, Prospectiva; Adrian Magendzo, IADB
From innovative companies at the forefront of advanced manufacturing and the digital economy to the life sciences, Latin America represents one of the world's most-promising innovation regions. Yet, over the past 15 years, Latin America has averaged less than 3 percent annual GDP growth, suggesting vast untapped potential. This panel will explore the promise—and challenges—to Latin American innovation.
- 5:30 – 6:30 PM Reception
- 6:30 – 8:00 PM Dinner + Fireside Chat with Commissioner Geoffrey Starks, Federal Communications Commission
 Program Timing: Dinner Buffet (30 min); Moderated Discussion (60 min)
It is clear that 5G wireless communications will be an important technology development, one that will enable innovation across a range of industries and applications. At the same time, new innovations like low-earth orbit satellites offer the promise of ubiquitous broadband, including for rural America. Commissioner Starks will discuss these and related issues about the future of fixed and mobile broadband.

Saturday, February 22, 2020

Theme: Internet and IT Policy

- 8:30 – 9:00 AM Breakfast and Remarks: Rob Atkinson, ITIF
- 9:00 – 10:00 AM Breakout Sessions

 - Genomics, Data and the Future of Drug Innovation
(Moderated by Stephen Ezell, ITIF)
 - Tech and the Future of Jobs and Workforce Development
(Moderated by Rob Atkinson, ITIF)
 - IoT's Promise for Energy Efficiency
(Moderated by Doug Brake, ITIF)
- 10:15 – 11:30 AM Panel: 5G and Enterprise Transformation
 Moderator: Doug Brake, Director, Broadband and Spectrum Policy, ITIF
 Confirmed: Giulia McHenry, Acting Chief, Office of Economics and Analytics, FCC; Mike Saperstein, U.S. Telecom; Marie Sylla, T-Mobile
Most attention paid to information and communications tech (ICT) is on consumer applications and purported problems (e.g., privacy, hate speech, etc.). Yet, the greater promise from ICT in the next decade is on the enterprise/organizational side, where a suite of technologies, especially 5G, hold the potential for finally turning around America's long-standing anemic productivity growth rates. How will these technologies potentially reshape enterprises, including government? What are the barriers to transformation and what are the implications of slow progress? And most importantly, what is the role of government to not get in the way while at the same time enabling and supporting transformation?
- 11:45 – 12:15 PM Lunch
