ADDENDUM: Question 21:
The lodging cost per day ($534.00/night) is higher than the per diem rate of the area. Senate participants will be placed in standard rooms. This trip was arranged without regard to congressional participation, and we verify that no special treatment was given to members in either lodging or food.

Question 16 Addendum:

Transportation Expenses:
$1168 ($668 airfare*, $500 round trip for ground transportation - ground transportation is only charged once per couple

Consumer prices are rising faster than they have in decades. Inflation is wrecking consumer confidence. The Federal Reserve came to realize it was behind the curve in curbing inflation, but did that realization come too late? Will inflation cool in 2022, or will it lead to stagnation? Will the Fed be forced to take aggressive action, and could that accidentally tip the economy into a recession? A panel of expert economists will discuss what to expect this year.

Higher education has been the subject of intense controversy in recent years, as threats to free speech, intellectual diversity, and the academic ethic have proliferated. The administration of elections has become explosively controversial in the past few years, as both serious worries and baseless conspiracies have multiplied while Republicans and Democrats have each pursued partisan legislative measures on their own. As the major social-media platforms and other key technology companies have come to play a greater role in the lives of all Americans, policymakers have increasingly been pressured to regulate their growing power. The prospect of such action has divided the political right in particular. What powers are legitimately available to policymakers? What are the potential consequences of action and inaction?

The US-China formal diplomatic relationship is creeping up to a half century in age. Rarely has it been so fraught. The two nations are intertwined as never before economically, politically, and militarily. Once, China's predations in the South China Sea, its aggression toward Taiwan, its theft of American intellectual property, and even its takeover of Hong Kong could be glossed over; they were matters of concern but not action. That is no longer the case. Under the Trump administration, trade relations soured over allegations that Beijing manipulated and violated global trading rules. Under the Biden administration, the trading relationship has not improved (though trade and investment have continued to soar), and Congress has ensured that sanctions are now in place for what two secretaries of state have labeled the ongoing genocide against China's Muslim Uyghurs. Is there an endgame between the US and China? How about a strategy? And what exactly is it that strategy?

While the Biden administration is heralding its August pull-out from Afghanistan as an "extraordinary success," America's tumultuous retreat has sparked outrage and shame in the United States and abroad. Amid a hasty and calamitous military evacuation, a terror attack carried out by the Islamic State–Khorasan at Kabul's international airport on August 26, 2021, resulted in the deaths of an estimated 170 Afghans and 13 US service members. Moreover, despite President Joe Biden's vow to leave no man behind, when the last American plane departed Kabul, hundreds of American citizens and as many as 62,000 of our Afghan allies were left stranded and at the mercy of the Taliban. In the face of government inaction, a handful of individuals dedicated themselves to raising awareness and getting those we abandoned out of Afghanistan. Join AEI Senior Fellow Marc A. Thiessen as he hosts Rep. AEI WORLD FORUM | SEA ISLAND, GA

November 30, 2021

The Honorable Ben Sasse
139 Russell Senate Office Building
Washington, DC 20510

Dear Senator Sasse:

I am writing to invite you to the American Enterprise Institute's annual World Forum, which will be held March 10–13, 2022, in Sea Island, Georgia.

AEI's World Forum has a remarkable nearly 40-year history that has made it one of the most important gatherings of influential leaders grappling with the most critical policy challenges of the day. Every year, we convene a group of world leaders from government, business, media, and academia to discuss the major challenges facing the free world.

What sets AEI's Forum apart from other events of its kind, however, is its reputation as one of the most substantive and thought-provoking off-the-record events that features serious, civil debate on both today's urgent issues and those that are further afield. Your participation as a speaker would add great value to these conversations.

I very much hope you will be able to join us next year. I have enclosed the agenda and participant list from a past World Forum, and I will share with you the 2022 program agenda as it takes shape.

With warm regards,

Robert Doar

2022 AEI World Forum

AEI's 2022 World Forum will address the challenges that the United States and its allies face in economics, security, and social welfare. The annual event is completely off-the-record and attracts top business and financial executives and entrepreneurs, as well as distinguished statesmen, scholars, and military leaders from around the world. Discussions of varying size are carefully structured to be candid, provocative, and informative. A premium is placed on lively debate, contrarian thinking, and solutions-oriented discussion.

Unencumbered by political or special interests, as always, the Forum focuses on creative and forward-looking ideas in pursuit of independent and innovative solutions with real-world impact. AEI expects the World Forum to inspire ideas that expand human dignity and human potential at home and abroad. The mix of participants' knowledge, experience, savvy, and talent makes the World Forum a unique venue for insight and intelligence unavailable at any other gathering.

The event, held annually at The Cloister on Sea Island, Georgia, is a private event for the purpose of encouraging a frank and free-ranging competition of ideas. Ample time is reserved for social events, sports and recreation, and private meetings. Spouses and significant others are encouraged to attend and participate in the Forum's discussions.

The 2022 World Forum agenda is currently in development. As an example, the 2020 agenda and participant list prior to cancellation follow.

Sea Island

From March 10 to 13, 2022, all of Sea Island will be devoted to the AEI World Forum.

Located along five miles of private beach on the Atlantic coast, Sea Island has served as an unrivaled luxury resort and vacation and meeting destination since 1928.

Sea Island is only minutes from McKinnon St. Simons Island Airport, which services private aircraft.

Sea Island is located halfway between Savannah, Georgia, and Jacksonville, Florida, and is approximately a one-hour drive from both cities' international airports.

Turkey—arguably one of NATO's most important members, once a reliable Muslim partner—has flipped from friend to foe after 15 years of rule by President Recep Tayyip Erdoğan. For many years, Turkey stood firm against Communism, terrorism, and Islamism. Today, Erdoğan has ruthlessly stifled the press and his opponents, Islamized school curricula, and shunned women from the public sphere. And this is to say nothing of Turkey's shady arms deal with Russia, persecution of US Kurdish allies, and support for Hamas and the Muslim Brotherhood. Will the Turkey of yore ever return? Or has Erdoğan put Turkey on the path of no return?

Should Corporations Prioritize Shareholder Value Above All Else?

Frank Blake
Vivek Ramaswamy
J. D. Vance
Kevin Warsh
Paul Gigot (Moderator)

For decades, it has been widely accepted that the social responsibility of corporations was to maximize value for their owners. This arrangement required managers to act on behalf of a corporation's owners. But do corporations have a broader responsibility to their workers, communities, and the nation as a whole? If so, how should corporate managers balance these competing imperatives?

How Much Will Economic Policy Change Under the Next President?

John Delaney
Ben Harris
Tomas Philipson
Rob Portman
Michael Strain
James Pethokoukis (Moderator)

The future of economic policy is uncertain. If President Donald Trump is reelected, what would his economic policy priorities be? Would his reelection embolden his trade war and hostility to immigration? Would he pursue another tax cut? The election of a Democrat would see big changes in economic policy. How would the Democratic agenda—of either a populist or more centrist president—affect the economy?

Thirty Years After the Berlin Wall: Is the Iron Curtain Really Gone?

Emily Haber
Vladimir Kara-Murza
Daniel Twining
Roger Wicker
Leon Aron (Moderator)

In 1989, the fall of the Berlin Wall symbolized more than just the end of the Cold War. The reunification of East and West Berlin signaled hope—hope for democracy and freedom for not just Germans but all victims of the Soviet Union across Europe. Thirty years later, a dark shadow looms. Russian aggression in its near abroad continues apace, and Moscow now uses its disruptive skills to interfere in democratic processes across Europe. Governments in the erstwhile Soviet bloc are backsliding away from democracy and Western values. The Cold War might be officially over, but could an Iron Curtain lower again in the 21st century?

Rethinking China

Rob Portman
James Risch
Marco Rubio
Derek Scissors
Liz Truss
Mark Zandi
Paul Gigot (Moderator)

President Donald Trump's eagerness to confront China on economic grounds has surprised many. But close observers of both US politics and Beijing's drift from global norms have seen this confrontation as all but inevitable. Is China a partner or an adversary? Can a strategic threat remain nonetheless a key economic partner? Is the "decoupling" that many recommend feasible? What are the economic and foreign policy implications of China's ambitions for technological dominance, including 5G wireless technology and artificial intelligence? Is it morally appropriate for the US to be so economically intertwined with a nation that engages in human rights violations on such a large scale?

Why Are We Worried About Huawei?

Ashton Carter
Jared Cohen
John Cornyn
Mike Gallagher
Paul Wolfowitz
Shane Tews (Moderator)

5G technology promises more than just faster internet speed; it could revolutionize the way we connect. Self-driving cars, remote surgery, virtual reality, and major battlefield advances are just a few things that 5G could make possible. But along with the benefits of 5G come serious security threats. China's largest tech giant, Huawei, is at the forefront of 5G adoption, and its ties to the Communist Party run deep. From commercial to military espionage, the risks Huawei poses to the 5G network are clear. Can the US and its allies agree to mitigate these threats? Is there any feasible American competition for Huawei, or is the People's Republic of China company the only game in town? And is an outright ban the only way to ensure our security?

10:30 a.m.–12:00 p.m. General Session — The Cloister

Should We Be Nationalists?

Ted Cruz
Jonah Goldberg
Michael Gove
Joel Kotkin
Bill Kristol
Rich Lowry
Bret Stephens
J. D. Vance
David Brooks (Moderator)

The past few years have witnessed heated debates about how Americans should understand our country, its history, and its character. Is America fundamentally defined by the ideals of its founding or by a common history, shared cultural identity, and a set of boundaries on a map? Is American patriotism a form of nationalism or an alternative to it? And what are the implications of a turn toward nationalism for a range of public policies, including foreign relations, trade, globalization, and immigration?

Popular Culture—the Good, the Bad, and the Ugly

Paul Cantor
Ross Douthat
Christine Rosen
Ben Sasse
Jonah Goldberg (Moderator)

Popular entertainment—including movies, music, comic books, and television—fills our time and molds our souls. But what shape is it giving those souls now? Is today's cultural landscape a wasteland? Where can we find, or how can be build, some pockets of excellence and causes for hope?

Regional Inequality and the American Dream

Doug Ducey
Jed Kolko
Joel Kotkin
Michael Strain
Ryan Streeter (Moderator)

Poverty and inequality in America have become rigidly geographic in recent decades. Unlike previous recessions, the Great Recession ended without lower-income people moving to more prosperous places. The result is that richer and poorer people are now segregated more than ever in our lifetimes, which makes it much harder for people in disadvantaged communities to move up in life. How are housing costs, family composition, barriers to professional advancement, and education reinforcing the geography of inequality? Is the American dream still alive for people living in low-income places?

The View from the American Heartland

Marsha Blackburn
Phil Gramm
Shelley Moore Capito
Fred Upton
Hugo Gurdon (Moderator)

The rise of populism in both political parties has thrust the American heartland into the center of the public debate. Join elected officials from a variety of states to discuss local conditions—and what they mean for the nation as a whole.
