Attachment 1 of 3

2) Description of Trip:

This trip explores the impact of U.S. government bilateral and multilateral investments in child immunization and polio eradication, immunization and health systems, disease surveillance, and how these investments also strengthen pandemic preparedness, emergency response, and global health security. As the largest country in Africa by population and an epicenter for recent polio eradication successes as well as challenges, Nigeria is an important case study to understand child immunization and last-mile delivery challenges for each of these issues, providing the delegation a first-hand experience of the collaborative work between U.S. government implementing agencies, multilateral organizations, and country governments.
