History of Congressional Travel

Between 2000 and 2005, LegiStorm reflects that NAS sponsored 16 trips to facilitate congressional staff participation in workshops, conferences, symposiums, and roundtables on various subjects related to science policy.

Educational Activities

The National Academy of Sciences (NAS), a private tax-exempt corporation, provides independent, objective advice to inform policy with evidence, spark progress and innovation, and confront challenging issues for the benefit of society. The NAS includes under its charter the National Academy of Engineering and the National Academy of Medicine (collectively referred to as the National Academies). The Climate Crossroads Congressional Fellowship has been established to provide current Congressional staff with a solid grounding in the science, engineering, and health dimensions of climate change, as well as opportunities to build connections with colleagues from diverse policy backgrounds. The program leverages National Academies' reports, activities, staff, and expert networks and focuses on capacity building, professional development, and networking opportunities for program participants during a crucial window as the world confronts a changing climate.

Purpose and Details

Provide a brief description of the trip.

As part of the NAS Climate Crossroads Congressional Fellowship participants engage in a series of monthly events on topics related to climate change, and the weekend seminar trip will enable an extended period of deep engagement for program participants with NAS resources and experts as well as ample time for community building. The weekend seminar will open Friday evening with an overview of NAS and its role in the science policy ecosystem. Saturday will consist of modules focused on the intersection of climate change with agriculture, food, and ecosystems, including a field site visit to the University of Maryland Center for Environmental Science's Horn Point Laboratory. On Sunday, a module on climate and water resources will close out the weekend before the group returns to DC. Modules will be delivered by National Academies staff and volunteer experts, and will consist of a mix of lectures, interactive activities, and a field site visit.

Explain how the purpose of the trip relates to your organization's mission.

RE: Climate Crossroads Congressional Fellowship – Weekend Seminar Invitation

Dear Prerna,

On behalf of the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, we are pleased to invite you to the 2024 Climate Crossroads Congressional Fellowship Weekend Seminar in Cambridge, Maryland from March 15th to March 17th, 2024. The weekend seminar will be the keystone experience of the fellowship, and we look forward to facilitating an enriching and rewarding weekend for you and your cohort of fellows.

The Climate Crossroads Congressional Fellowship has been established to provide current Congressional staff with a solid grounding in the science, engineering, and health dimensions of climate change, as well as opportunities to engage in dialogue with colleagues from diverse policy backgrounds. The weekend seminar is a key component of a series of fellowship modules, and over the course of the three-day seminar fellows will have the opportunity to learn about climate-related topics from National Academies staff and invited experts. The seminar is funded by the National Academies and includes costs for transportation, meals, and accommodations. Meals and accommodations will comply with federal per diem rates.

Weekend Seminar Itinerary

The weekend seminar will open Friday afternoon with a module on the impacts of climate change on migration and national security. After arrival to Cambridge, MD, there will be presentations previewing weekend sessions and providing insights on the National Academies' role in the policy landscape. Saturday will consist of modules focused on the intersection of climate change with agriculture, food, and ecosystems, including a field site visit to the University of Maryland Center for Environmental Science's Horn Point Laboratory and a natural disaster simulation interactive activity. On Sunday, a module on climate and water resources will close out the weekend before the group returns to DC.

A detailed tentative itinerary is attached for additional information (a copy is also available on the Fellowship DropBox).

Transportation & Accommodations

Please review the logistics below and contact Ryan Gallasch (rgallasch@nas.edu) if you have any questions or concerns.

Ethics Approval Information

Fellows are responsible for ensuring that their participation is in alignment with applicable ethics rules for their specific position and must seek ethics approval to participate. Fellows must submit documentation for ethics approval no later than Wednesday, February 14th to facilitate their participation in the weekend seminar.

Fellowship staff will submit weekend seminar information to Senate Ethics via their Travel App (<https://pst.senate.gov/>). The website will then send notifications to each Senate fellow we list with guidance on the approval process. Fellows need to submit their individual invitation, the seminar itinerary (attached and available on the Fellowship DropBox), and a completed Employee Pre-Travel Authorization (Form RE-1). If needed, a full list of invitees for the weekend seminar is attached and available on the Fellowship DropBox. Additional information on Senate travel ethics can be found here.

Please note that while the guidance above was developed after discussion with Congressional ethics staff, procedures may vary from office to office. We will send reminders as the February 14th deadline approaches and can be contacted if any information is needed.

While we understand that ethics approval may be provided closer to the start of the weekend seminar, please let us know by Friday, February 9th if you are unable to attend due to scheduling conflicts or other reasons.

Thank you for your anticipated participation and we look forward to a rewarding seminar! Please feel free to reach out to us if there are any questions or if additional information would be helpful.

Sincerely,

Ryan

Climate Crossroads Congressional Fellowship: Weekend Seminar

With financial support from the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine

Background

Location: Cambridge, Maryland

Dates: March 15th – 17th, 2024

Mission Goals: The Climate Crossroads (CCX) Congressional Fellowship has been established to provide current Congressional staff with a solid grounding in the science, engineering, and health dimensions of climate change, as well as opportunities to engage in dialogue with colleagues from diverse policy backgrounds. The weekend seminar is planned as a key component of a series of training modules fellows engage with over the course of their fellowship. Most training modules are two hours once monthly, but the weekend seminar will enable an extended training period for participants to engage with program materials with the off-site location facilitating the opportunity to connect information gained in the classroom to communities on the ground. The weekend seminar will also serve as a sustained opportunity for fellows to engage with their peers and the larger scientific community on a range of climate-related topics.

Relevance to Official Duties: CCX Congressional Fellows participate in the National Academies' Climate Crossroads Congressional Fellowship as part of their official duty to (1) build their capacity for science informed policy making, (2) engage in dialogue with peers, and (3) enhance access to leading science, engineering, and medicine for both themselves and their offices.

Location: Cambridge, MD was selected as the weekend retreat destination due to its direct economic, cultural, and geographic ties to the areas of climate change to be addressed during the seminar.

Climate Crossroads Congressional Fellowship: Weekend Seminar

With financial support from the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine

Background

Location: Cambridge, Maryland

Dates: March 15th – 17th, 2024

Mission Goals: The Climate Crossroads (CCX) Congressional Fellowship has been established to provide current Congressional staff with a solid grounding in the science, engineering, and health dimensions of climate change, as well as opportunities to engage in dialogue with colleagues from diverse policy backgrounds. The weekend seminar is planned as a key component of a series of training modules fellows engage with over the course of their fellowship. Most training modules are two hours once monthly, but the weekend seminar will enable an extended training period for participants to engage with program materials with the off-site location facilitating the opportunity to connect information gained in the classroom to communities on the ground. The weekend seminar will also serve as a sustained opportunity for fellows to engage with their peers and the larger scientific community on a range of climate-related topics.

Relevance to Official Duties: CCX Congressional Fellows participate in the National Academies' Climate Crossroads Congressional Fellowship as part of their official duty to (1) build their capacity for science informed policy making, (2) engage in dialogue with peers, and (3) enhance access to leading science, engineering, and medicine for both themselves and their offices.

Location: Cambridge, MD was selected as the weekend retreat destination due to its direct economic, cultural, and geographic ties to the areas of climate change to be addressed during the seminar.
