Jobs for the Future (JFF) has sponsored site visits and other educational activities for Congressional staff for 15 years. Examples of this work include three to four DC-based forums per year, and approximately two site visits per year where senior Congressional staff see high-quality workforce programs first-hand and learn from experts, practitioners, and program participants about the impact of federal policy on the ground. The purpose of these trips, and of the Congressional Staff Network, is to provide in-depth learning opportunities for staff on workforce, education, and economic security issues.

Educational Activities

JFF works with partners around the country to design and drive the adoption of education and career pathways that lead to upward economic mobility, especially for individuals who face systemic barriers to advancement. Purpose and Details

Provide a brief description of the trip.

The Congressional Staff Network for Economic Advancement (CSN) convenes a bicameral, bipartisan group of senior Congressional staff to focus on policy issues at the core of economic mobility: K-12 education, postsecondary education, workforce development, and social welfare. The purpose of this trip is to examine evidence-based approaches to education and workforce development that are preparing Austinites for the future of work and fostering inclusive economic development. Staff will see program models designed to close opportunity and wealth gaps while meeting the state's economic growth targets. They will engage with stakeholders involved in developing and implementing these efforts, including workforce and education system leaders, community-based organizations, major employers, and training providers.

Explain how the purpose of the trip relates to your organization's mission.

JFF's mission is to drive transformation of the U.S. education and workforce systems to achieve equitable economic advancement for all. Specifically, JFF aims to eliminate barriers to economic mobility by making our education and workforce systems more equitable, better connected, and easier to navigate. JFF's mission connects directly to the purpose of this trip: highlighting innovative, evidence-based programs and policies that drive upward mobility.

CONGRESSIONAL STAFF NETWORK
FOR ECONOMIC ADVANCEMENT

Dear Abby,

I am writing to invite you to participate in an upcoming three-day Congressional Staff Network for Economic Advancement (CSN) site visit to Austin, TX from Tuesday, February 20 – Thursday, February 22, 2024.

In Austin, staff will learn about the region's evidence-based workforce development strategy, which centers on career pathways, industry sector partnerships, and career exploration/navigation supports. We will visit NXP Semiconductors' manufacturing plant to gain a better understanding of the skill demands in that industry and how employers hope to implement CHIPS and Science Act funding in support of workforce development. Staff will also see YouthBuild programming in action – a model that works to build young people's foundational and occupational skills, encouraging them along pathways to family supporting careers – and hear directly from youth participants about their experience.

At the state level, architects of Texas' Tri-Agency Workforce Initiative will discuss how they designed and are implementing a comprehensive, integrated education and workforce data infrastructure, including a shared data governance policy. This statewide longitudinal data system offers policymakers a model to consider as they evaluate federal programs under the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act and Higher Education Act. Finally, postsecondary system leaders will discuss the impetus for and implications of Texas House Bill 8, which codified a new outcomes-based approach to state community college funding and expands no-cost dual enrollment for high school students. We will also visit Austin Community College's innovative training and community engagement facilities, including the Make it Center, which offers students and families hands-on career exploration experiences, and the Innovative IMPACT Lab, a business incubator for aspiring manufacturers.

Please confirm your participation by Wednesday, January 10. Once you confirm your plans to participate, our team will share final information for the trip, including the agenda and the necessary ethics documentation.

Thank you and we hope you can join us!

Best,

Mary Clagett
