Erin Jarnagin
Office of U.S. Senator John Neely Kennedy
437 Russell Senate Office Building
Washington, D.C. 20510

Dear Erin,

Given your congressional oversight role, Malaria No More would like to invite you on a staff delegation trip to Tanzania from August 3-10, 2024 to witness firsthand the U.S. government's malaria prevention, control and elimination efforts as well as to examine the broader state of development and health, progress made, and challenges that remain in the region.

Critical investments have been made by the President's Malaria Initiative (PMI) and the Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis and Malaria, leading to tremendous progress in the fight against malaria around the world. The World Health Organization estimates that there have been 11.7 million lives saved and 2 billion infections prevented since 2000. Among the population most vulnerable to malaria, children under the age of 5, there has been a historic 69 percent decline in the rate of child deaths from malaria in Africa and African Leaders have set a target of 2030 for eliminating malaria from the continent.

Tanzania has been a PMI focus country since 2006 and has seen significant results from their malaria prevention and treatment efforts. Child death rates have fallen by 40 percent and lifesaving interventions such as 27.3 million mosquito nets and 3.1 million preventive treatments for pregnant women are reaching more people since the program's inception. Health systems are stronger and health workers have received thousands of trainings to help them fight malaria.

Thanks to bipartisan support in Congress, leadership across Administrations, support and resources from faith communities and the private sector, the United States is leading the world and has achieved outstanding success in fighting malaria.

During this trip, staff will have an opportunity to engage with a variety of U.S. government officials from PMI, the Global Fund to Fight AIDS, Tuberculosis and Malaria, the Peace Corps, the Department of State, the U.S. Agency for International Development, and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. We will also engage directly with foreign government officials, public health experts, community health workers and other key stakeholders and program implementors as we examine the malaria landscape in the broader health and development context in Tanzania.

We hope that you will consider joining us and a detailed itinerary will be sent shortly. Please contact Spencer Knoll (Spencer.Knoll@malarianomore.org) at Malaria No More for additional information.

Thank you,

Martin Edlund
