Gregg-

On behalf of the Conference of State Bank Supervisors (CSBS), I invite you to attend the 14th annual Community Banking Research Conference as our guest.
The conference is sponsored by the Federal Reserve, CSBS, and the FDIC. Leveraging data from a national survey of community banks, insights gained from hundreds of banker interviews, and independent academic research, the research conference provides an in-depth and holistic review of the community banking industry and the policy issues it faces. You can find more information on the overall conference herehttps://www.communitybanking.org/conferences/2023.

This year's conference will be held at the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis on October 6-7, 2026. In addition to banker and researcher panel discussions, speakers include:

- Michelle Bowman, Vice Chair for Supervision, Federal Reserve Board of Governors
- Travis Hill, Chairman, FDIC
- Jill Castilla, President and CEO, Citizens State Bank of Edmond
- You can see the full agenda here.

Note: The conference will be available to live stream for those not able to attend in person. However, those attending via live stream will only be able to watch the conference and not able to ask questions.
Per our previous conversations, we look forward to hosting you. You will need to submit details to the Ethics Committee, see the attached form for timeline. We will work with you on this, as well as travel arrangements.
CSBS invites a handful of staff to attend each year, so please reach out if you have any questions and please confirm your attendance as soon as practicable.
Thanks for your consideration. We hope you'll be able to join us!

History of Congressional Travel

CSBS is the nationwide organization of banking regulators from all 50 states and U.S. territories. The Community Banking Research Conference is consistent with the mission of CSBS in supporting the leadership role of state banking supervisors in advancing the state banking system. The dual banking system ensures safety and soundness; promotes economic growth and consumer protection; and fosters innovative state regulation of the financial services industry. In conjunction with the Federal Reserve and the FDIC, CSBS is hosting and sponsoring the research conference. CSBS invites Congressional staff to attend the Community Banking Research Conference and the National Multistate Licensing System Conference annually. Both events are intended to educate Congressional staff about the importance of the dual banking system and the roles states play in supervising the financial services industry.

CSBS

8:18 p.m. ET Arrive at Washington National Airport

Sponsor Interest: CSBS is the nationwide organization of banking regulators from all 50 states and U.S. territories. The Community Banking Research Conference is consistent with the mission of CSBS in supporting the leadership role of state banking supervisors in advancing the state banking system.

The dual banking system ensures safety and soundness, promotes economic growth and consumer protection, and fosters innovative state regulation of the financial services industry. In conjunction with the Federal Reserve, CSBS is hosting and sponsoring the research conference.

The Federal Reserve system works to promote a healthy economy, foster financial stability, and support job creation, which are important to the health of community banking. The conference brings together community bankers, academics, policymakers, and bank regulators to discuss research on community banking.
