Dear Meghan,

On behalf of the Global Women's Innovation Network (GlobalWIN), I am pleased to invite you to join us for an educational delegation to San Francisco, California. We will depart from Ronald Reagan Washington National Airport (DCA) on Tuesday, September 8, and return to Washington, D.C., on Friday evening, September 11.

During our time in San Francisco, GlobalWIN will host a series of meetings, site visits, and discussions focused on topics including artificial intelligence, advanced manufacturing, healthcare innovation, women's leadership, and the future of technology. These conversations are designed to provide congressional staff with valuable insights into the policies, partnerships, and innovations shaping our nation's future.

More information about GlobalWIN can be found on our website. Your work on these topics and active participation in our discussions will be a great asset to our delegation, which will include senior staff from both Republican and Democratic House and Senate offices.

GlobalWIN will cover your travel, hotel, and meal expenses related to the trip and programming, in compliance with the rules under House and Senate ethics laws. The submission of your ethics materials is due Monday, August 10th.

Purpose and Details

Provide a brief description of the trip.

GlobalWIN will bring together bipartisan professional staff from the U.S. House of Representatives and the U.S. Senate for a multi-day program focused on innovation, technology, and public policy. GlobalWIN develops each itinerary to ensure the program is educational, bipartisan, and consistent with congressional ethics requirements. Through meetings, site visits, and roundtable discussions with industry leaders, academic institutions, nonprofit organizations, and subject matter experts, participants will gain firsthand insights into emerging technologies, workforce development, advanced manufacturing, healthcare, artificial intelligence, and other issues relevant to the legislative process.

Explain how the purpose of the trip relates to your organization's mission.

GlobalWIN's mission is to connect women in public policy with leaders in innovation through bipartisan educational programming that advances informed policymaking. This trip directly supports that mission by providing congressional staff with firsthand exposure to emerging technologies, industry leaders, research institutions, and policy experts. Through educational meetings, site visits, and substantive discussions, participants will gain practical insights into innovation, economic competitiveness, workforce development, healthcare, and artificial intelligence, while learning how the public and private sectors work together each day to address shared challenges and advance solutions that inform the legislative process.
